Overview:

I am uniquely know in Cleveland Ohio, as the obnoxiously tall girl. This has taught me to embrace my height. Although I am considered a plus size model, I am extremely confident with my body. Embarrassment is an emotion I've exterminated from my life. I am a unique individual, who embraces standing out in crowds. Fear of rejection does not prevent me from being myself or striving towards my goals. I enjoy defying odds, and accomplishing things no one believed I could. Therefore, I am determined to achieve success in the modeling industry. I am proud of who I am, what I've accomplished and where I have come from.

My family has faced an excessive amount of tragedy throughout my life and is structured very non-traditionally. Differences, in my life, have shaped me into a level-minded individual, who is wise beyond years. They've also taught me to become independent, responsible, and accountable for actions, both of my own and those I associate myself with. I am always thankful for what I have because I know at any moment it can be swept away in the blink of an eye. I know success isn't given it is earned. Therefore I always work extremely hard at everything I do. As a result, my work tends to go above and beyond standards. I am someone who is considered reliable.

I am currently a Marketing major at Kent State University with an accumulative GPA of around 3.8. I enjoy learning and take school seriously. I am also very involved with my family. I currently hold the title, power of attorney for my grandmother. My father is brain injured from a work related accident. His legal guardian is my mother, who lives as a single-parent and has custody of my cousin's two young daughters. These children are a tremendous part of my life. I would like to set-aside a percentage of my modeling career earnings to start savings accounts for their college tuition.

I started my modeling career as a freelancer. I have enjoyed marketing myself to clients. One thing I've really enjoyed from this work, are connections I've made. I put a lot of time and effort into developing a portfolio and networking in the industry. When I jumped into this career, over the summer, work came very easily. I landed multiple prestigious jobs without putting much effort forth. I don't mind working hard to be successful, but I've realized there are many benefits that come from agencies. Safety, is a main concern. I've encountered an excessive amount of frauds, as well as, non-professional photographers.

Modeling has transformed from a form of extra income into a passion. I've always been a persistent individual, and giving up has never been. I have encountered setbacks but, I've given my all towards every task taken on. Accelerated improvement has been apparent. A good work ethic has allowed me to rapidly transform myself from an amateur to an experienced, credited model.

Modeling has also further developed my self-confidence. I've learned success in this industry doesn't come from being more beautiful than anyone else. It comes from having features that appeal to the camera. Including the right facial symmetry, a defined jawline, high cheekbones and height. All of these traits give me a very apparent advantage in the industry. This is why I don't view castings as a competition. Instead as an opportunity. Failure to get a job doesn't make me defeated and isn't something to take personally.

Objective:

My objective is to work through commercial, curves, plus, athletic, lifestyle, parts, runway, promotional, fashion, and high fashion divisions. I am interested in discussing contracts with agencies, and would prefer to sign non-exclusively. Traveling is something I am extremely open to doing. I do not wish to accept work that requires nudity. I am comfortable doing professional lingerie and swimwear work. My goal is to continue growing in this industry. I'd like to continue accumulating experience and expanding my range of work. I love opportunity and am open-minded to different types of projects. I hope to excel in many areas.

Eventually, I wish to serve as a mentor towards aspiring models. I may guide individuals through blogging or coaching. I enjoy helping people and would like to see young individual's self-of-steam skyrocket just as mine has. Humbleness and gratitude are attributes I would like to display. Often with success individuals start to take for granite what they have, and become selfish. This is why I would like to serve as a role model towards young girls on the verge of becoming professionals. It is important girls don't forgot who they are, what they stand for, and where they have come from.
